Dedication

Through this, our yearbook, we wish to express our sincere appreciation of the untiring help of Miss Helen Stroppel and Miss Helen Callenius, our class advisors. Their understanding of our problems and kindness in helping us over the "hard spots" will long be remembered by all of us.

To them we wish to dedicate this, the John Jay of the Class of '48.

Class History

It all began in September, 1936, at the old school on Bedford Road. Among the bright, eager faces in the first grade were Allan Andersen and Lloyd Beacom busily engaged in throwing lead soldiers. Beaming Bruce Thomas and little Charlie Fowler sat quietly in their seats, the model students. Ernest Dorton and Alice Southworth were there too as Miss Wiles brought the class to order.

In second grade, pretty Jean Bennett joined the class, as Mrs. Hasseltine tried to still the uproar. Sam Hilbert also walked in and sat down.

Third grade brought no new additions, more work and Miss Bingham showing us how to write.

Ah! We remember fourth grade well. It was here that Monsieur Norton made his illustrious entrance. Blonde Astrid and shy Gunhild Wallgren entered our grade as did Doris Brown. Mrs. Virtuoso will long be remembered for her patient ways with our class.

In the fifth grade we found ourselves in the new school. Along with this change came a not-so-big Irl Brown and petite Jo DeCunzo. Miss Osborne was our teacher.

In Mrs. Schuler's sixth grade we really had a lot of new members. From Golden's Bridge came Doris Lynn, Jackie Seymour, Viola and Louise Tocci, and Aldo Cosentino. Bob Gilbert and Charlotte Zarges completed the picture.

Seventh grade saw us upstairs at last! Mrs. Woodcock was our homeroom teacher and it took us no time at all to make ourselves right at home. Little Marie Zottola came to us from Bedford Hills and soon after came Bob Loveling, also from Bedford. Bernice Jones joined our ranks that year too.

Eighth grade brought us to the last step before high school. Mr. Myers was our homeroom teacher. Our only new member was Pat Hall, but she made up for quite a few! We inaugurated our School Court system whereby we had monitors on duty and an active judge and council to decide the fates of offenders. Pat Hall was our first judge and we found our Student Council program very effective.

Freshmen! We found our class overflowing into the halls as there were so many of us. From Pound Ridge came brilliant Jewel Bode, demure Audrey Bouton, sports-loving Pat Marshall, shy Bob Scofield, giggly Audrey Scofield, and Anita Smith. From South Salem, our debater Howland Adams arrived. With him came Dot Bautz, Tony Fasolino, Mary Lowney, Barb Madsen, Alton Moore, and Don Taylor. Quiet Victor Gnos from Long Island joined us this year too. Miss Callenius and Miss Stroppel were assigned to our homerooms. We still wonder about who was the luckiest. We elected Bob Gilbert our Freshman class president.

Our Sophomore year saw five truly important new arrivals. Fun-loving Dot Anderson and pretty Patty Braden arrived first. Paul Brouard, Louise Morehouse and Dick Sears came soon after. Pat Braden became our class president during our Sophomore year.

In September, 1946, we at last became Juniors, and only one step away from our last year. We elected Paul Brouard president of the class. He left us in April and Bud Adams took over. Both fellows did a grand job. We outdid ourselves on our Junior Prom. We had a magic wishing well, a bower of fragrant flowers and a theme in general that made you sit up and take notice. Mary Lowney was our Prom Queen. We had two quiz contests with the Seniors and we invariably came out the winner! Sam Hilbert decided to return to K.H.S. and Alice Southworth joined us again too. Two handsome men, namely Dick Herz and Dick Eddy, joined us along with blonde Barbara Shear.

Our Senior Year proved to be the greatest year of all. Paul Brouard returned to K.H.S. to again be elected class president. We gave the first dance of the year and then threw ourselves into our Senior Play, "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine." We had a wonderful time doing it and we'll never forget Irl's "I ain't never missed yet!" or Pat's "Kin if I wanna." It proved to be one of the memorable dates of the year. Another memorable date was the day Katonah defeated Chappaqua in football and won the annual battle for the plaque. Nine of our boys were members of this football team. Our Senior Ball was something "out of this world." Snowmen and icicles dotted the auditorium and couples danced beneath soft clouds of snow.

Our last arrival was George Morgan from Saint Peter's School, Peekskill, New York.

Though, as we write, the year is not yet over and we are looking forward to commencement, already we have the feeling that the time is short. The few weeks that are left will soon join the busy years already recorded. For some of us high school is the end of formal education; others of us will go on to college. For all of us, however, this part of our life will provide happy memories through years to come.

Class Poem

As we leave behind
Our high school years,
Let us look back
O'er the tide of events
Both happy and sad
That have marked our time
At Katonah High.
Let us remember the studies,
Recall the emotions,
The feeling of knowledge,
The gladness of a test well done.
Then think of the games,
The tense thread of competition
When the score was close.
Look back on the parties,
The music and dancing.
Feel again the happiness
Of working together
For this school that we love.
Now let us look forward
To our future.
It's in our hands
To do with as we will.
Whether it be dark or bright
Is up to us.
May we be prepared to face it
Come what may.

The noted class of '48 soon leaves Katonah High.
Some will leave with a mirthful laugh
And some will leave with a sigh.
But whether we're happy or sad to go,
Our stay here has been too brief.
Just ask the teachers and they'll say, "Yes . . ."
But ignore the sigh of relief.
We've haunted the halls of this grand old school
Too long, too loud and too fast.
But now with the day of commencement here,
We're sorry it is our last.
So when we've gone and the school seems dull,
You'll remember us then, I'll bet,
For we've done our best to make this class
Impossible to forget!

Class Prophecy

Buddy Adams walked down the street with a happy smile on his face. He was now the most prominent tobacco auctioneer in the United States. Everyone knew his famous mile-a-minute voice. He stopped at a street corner and bought a newspaper. As he strolled on, he leisurely thumbed through the paper. Suddenly he stopped and exclaimed loudly over an item on the third page. "Well, can you beat that!" he muttered to himself. The headline read, "Katonah Class of 1948 to Hold Tenth Year Reunion Tonight." "Golly, I might have missed it if I hadn't gotten back today. I haven't been in town for quite a while," thought Buddy to himself.

That evening, at eight P.M. on the dot, Mr. Howland King Adams strolled into the large banquet hall where the dinner was to be held. The first person he saw was Dot Anderson who rushed over to welcome him. She told him that she was chairman of the reunion committee and was in charge of the dinner. Dot had become quite a clubwoman. She was president of the Little Ladies' Luncheon Legation and held offices in nine other clubs. She loved doing this sort of work because she became acquainted with the nicest people.

After Dot had seated Bud beside her, she started to point out all the old classmates. "There's Pat Hall!" she exclaimed. Bud watched a jewel and mink-bedecked woman walk across the floor. "Surely you've seen her latest play," Dot continued. "She's really a star now, and they say she is divorcing her sixth husband. That man beside her is her press agent, Bob Loveling. You have to get past three secretaries and a Great Dane before you can even see him. He knows exactly the right thing to say at the right time!"

"Who's that?" asked Bud, as a short, important-looking man took his place at the table. "Why, that's Aldo J. Cosentino, the multi-millionaire," replied Dot. "He made a fortune manufacturing the famous soft drink, Burp-So."

Bud decided to start at the head of the table and work down. He recognized Dick Herz sitting at the head of the table. "What's he doing now?" he asked. Dot gasped, "Haven't you heard? He's a scientist and he has just finished lecturing at Harvard and Princeton, on one of his rare trips away from his laboratory. He is now working on some sort of method for travelling to the sun via cosmic rays."

Next to Dick sat a glamorous girl with an elaborate hairdo. It was Gunhild Wallgren, the well-known model and cover girl. "To think she was in my class!" thought Bud.

Bud decided to see how many other classmates he could recognize. There was Irl Brown. Bud turned to Dot and inquired about him. "Oh, Irl's one of the town's most respected citizens. He's a window-washer and flag-pole-painter. Irl is very particular about whose flag poles he paints. He yodels while he paints, free of charge," she added.

Next to Irl sat Sam Hilbert. Bud recognized him at once. Sam posed for the Ovaltine advertisements and his face could be seen on every kitchen shelf in America.

There was Dotty Bautz. According to the latest news Bud had heard about her, she was prima ballerina in a ballet theatre. Near Dotty sat Pam Grossman. As a result of Pam's experience in the Senior play, she had become a geologist searching for coal in the Blue Ridge Mountains.

"Who is the man with the little black moustache?" Bud whispered to Dot. Dot smiled and answered, "Bud, do you mean to say that you don't recognize Monsieur Jacques Norton, the fashion designer? He's just had a preview of his new fashions and his 'Tres Peu' look is the rage of the country. All the women are rushing to buy his dresses." Bud just blinked rapidly and said nothing.

The next person he saw was Mary Lowney. Mary was sole owner of a chain of meat markets. Talking to Mary was Alice Southworth who had been married for several years.

Right next to Alice sat our former class president, Paul Brouard. Bud was surprised to find that Paul was head lion tamer for the Barnum and Bailey Circus.

At the other end of the table was Allan Andersen looking very somber. Bud leaned over and nudged Dot. "Hasn't Andy changed quite a bit?" Dot looked up and murmured, "He certainly has been successful. He is now the town's most expensive undertaker. He has just the right touch for that sort of thing."

Across from Allan sat Lloyd Beacom and Bruce Thomas, co-owners of an exclusive barber shop.

Bud then saw Jean Bennett. She was the owner of a sugar bush in Vermont. Jean was well-known for her modern sculptures done exclusively in maple sugar.

The next person whom Bud saw was Pat Marshall. Our class worrier was still having her worries, since she had become Dean of Women at Princeton University.

Pat was busily engaged in conversation with the trapeze artists, Louise and Viola Tocci. "It doesn't seem possible that I knew them ten years ago," thought Bud.

With a jangle of spurs, Dick Sears came in. It was easy to see what his profession was, a bronco rider in a Wild West show.

Bernice Jones was there too. Bud learned that she had been voted "Mother of the Week" by the Make-Believe Ballroom.

A loud murmur ran through the crowd as Charlie Fowler, the champion prize fighter, and his manager, Ernie Dorton, entered.

The next arrival was Tony Fasolino. He was a walking advertisement for his famous Tony Home Permanents.

Soon after Tony came Victor Gnos with a magnifying glass in one hand. Bud learned that he was a detective now working with Scotland Yard.

Bud then spotted Jewel Bode. In answer to his question about Jewel, Dot said, "She certainly has succeeded. She is now a comic-strip writer." Bud just stared speechlessly.

"Oh, there's Dick Eddy!" cried Dot. "He's now the manager of Carlson's Nurseries."

Soon Bud saw Bob Gilbert. "What's he doing now?" asked Bud. Dot replied, "He is the president and owner of Gilbert's Diaper Service."

Dot pointed out Doris Lynn and Barbara Madsen who were coming in the door. "Doris is the pitcher of the Golden's Bridge Fireball Softball team. Barbara Madsen carries the water bucket for the team."

Two of the members of the class of 1948 were connected with the Armed Forces. Audrey Scofield was a Lieutenant Colonel in the Navy Nurse Corps and Pat Braden had joined a Marine permanently.

Suddenly Dot nudged Bud. "Here comes Alton of Hollywood. Surely you remember Alton Moore. He is a make-up expert with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer."

Blonde Astrid Wallgren came into the banquet hall. Bud remembered that she was an ice skater. She had competed several times in the Olympics.

Bud noticed Donald Taylor who was sitting near George Morgan. Don was a used car salesman. Everyone knew that his powers of persuasion would get him somewhere. George was a photographer, noted especially for his baby pictures.

Dot then pointed out Doris Brown and Audrey Bouton. Bud learned that Doris was head matron of West Field Farms and that Audrey was the first woman conductor of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra.

Next to Audrey sat Bob Scofield. "He's a radio announcer on station WKHS. They call him Smiling Bob Scofield," Dot told Bud.

Bud inquired, "What ever happened to Charlotte Zarges?" "There she is over there," answered Dot. "She has just returned from her latest flight around the world. I believe it was her twelfth trip. Amazing isn't it?"

"I don't recognize that girl talking to Charlotte. Who is she?" Bud asked. "That's Marie Zottola. Haven't you seen her syndicated column? She gives advice to lonely hearts," Dot replied.

"Bud, look over there. Jackie Seymour and Jo DeCunzo are coming in. You'll never guess what Jo is doing now. She has become a professional lady wrestler. Jackie is a dietitian. Currently she is working at Exeter," Dot said.

Dot turned to Bud and asked, "Did you know that our class is represented on the K.H.S. faculty? Louise Morehouse and Barbara Shear are Senior advisors for the Class of 1958." Bud laughed, "I'll bet they're having their troubles now!"

"I think everyone is here now," said Dot. "Oh Paul, may we have a few words from you?"

Paul stood up, cleared his throat and began to speak. In the middle of his speech, all eyes turned to the door as Anita came rushing in, late as usual.

Dot whispered to Bud, "Guess she must have been delayed at the Stork Club. She's a fan dancer there, you know."

Class Will

We, the Class of 1948, wishing to be generous, hereby bequeath our many talents to the following lucky people:

Howland Adams leaves his ability to debate in history class to John Greenfieldt.

Allan Andersen leaves a well-worn path to the office.

Dot Anderson wills her ability to knit "flashy socks" to Joyce Hall.

Dotty Bautz gives her "Chicken Song" to Ralph Gay.

Lloyd Beacom leaves his collection of flashy clothes to Franklin Wood.

Jeanie Bennett leaves her sophistication to Jackie Paillex.

Jewel Bode leaves her sleepless nights and days of anxiety to future editors of the "Patch" and Yearbook.

Audrey Bouton leaves her quietness to Wade Everhart.

Patty Braden wills her petiteness to Alice "Stretch" White.

Paul Brouard leaves his atomic energy to next year's wheel.

Doris Brown leaves her collection of bobby-pins.

Irl Brown gives his height and Texas drawl to Willie Weist.

Aldo Cosentino leaves his curly locks to all the K.H.S. girls who suffer with curlers every night.

Jo DeCunzo wills her giggle to Helen Lang.

Ernie Dorton leaves Kay.

Dick Eddy bequeaths his "shovel" to the school. They'll need it.

Tony Fasolino leaves his French accent to anyone who is learning Spanish.

Charlie Fowler leaves his seat in study hall.

Bob Gilbert leaves his long hair to Mr. "Baldy" Smith.

Victor Gnos wills a well-worn comb to Donny Scofield.

Pam Grossman bequeaths her vitality to Joan Bradshaw.

Pat Hall leaves the "Patch" in the hands of Caroline Herz. We wish her the best of luck.

Dick Herz wills his athletic ability to Bob Schwerter.
 Sam Hilbert leaves his "Atlas" build to "Bones" Barrie.
 Bernice Jones leaves her subtle wit.
 Bob Loveling wills his deep voice to Barbara Breuninger.
 Mary Lowney leaves Miss Bryan in search of a new left wing in hockey.
 Doris Lynn leaves her cheerleading ability to her sister, Bobbie.
 Barbara Madsen leaves her artistic flair to Dickie Jarvis, the woodcarver.
 Pat Marshall bequeaths her skill in arts and crafts to Audrey Ganung.
 Alton Moore wills his passion for speed to Penny Scofield.
 Louise Morehouse leaves her extensive vocabulary to Carmen Gerardi.
 George Morgan leaves his studious manner to Harry French.
 Jack Norton wills his collection of automobiles to W. Elman of Mt. Kisco.
 Audrey Scofield leaves her sunny disposition to Paul Mazza, who is always "down in the mouth."
 Bob Scofield leaves his blushes to Mary Scheeder.
 Dick Sears bequeaths his Brooklyn accent to Alma Clark.
 Jackie Seymour leaves her blue glasses to Shirley Morgan in case she loses hers.
 Barbara Shear leaves George to Daddy.
 Anita Smith leaves one rusty Ford to whoever has his life insurance paid.
 Alice Southworth leaves her calmness to next year's eighth grade.
 Don Taylor leaves his coonskin cap to the prop room.
 Bruce Thomas leaves his talent in stage crafts to the Class of 1949 when it is faced with the problem of a Senior play.
 Louise Tocci wills her collection of recipes to Miss Mungeer.
 Viola Tocci bequeaths her sweet smile to Alfred de Veaux.
 Astrid and Gunhild Wallgren leave their sister act to the Elsessers.
 Charlotte Zarges leaves Janet to next year's Senior Class.
 Marie Zottola leaves . . . "I just kayn't remember!"

Jack Hale	Dick Eddy
Anne Saunders	Barbara Shear
Maw Falin	Barbara Madsen

The Senior Play, "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," was presented on December 3, 1947. It was not our objective in readying this performance to produce another "Tobacco Road," but rather to attempt to capture the simple, homely values of love and loyalty and beauty that are such an integral part of John Fox's beloved novel of the mountain folk. Our aim was to attempt to bring to the audience a brief moment of escape from the tension and fears of our modern day that seems so unhappily remote from the world of June Tolliver and the Lonesome Pine.

A cast of fourteen, headed by Pat Hall playing June Tolliver and Dick Eddy as Jack Hale, rendered an excellent performance. Mr. Baldwin D. Smith staged and directed the production.

Hockey

After an unusually large turn-out for hockey, five intramural teams were made up. Team Five was the final winner, captained by Mary Lowney.

The hockey honor team was then selected by Miss Bryan. The first team encouraged us with an exciting victory over Bedford Hills 4-0. After a struggle our second game was handed to Briarcliff with a score of 0-3. We played two games with our last opponents, Chappaqua, losing the first team game 5-0, but coming through for our last game of the season by defeating their second team 1-0.

Basketball

With an equally large turnout for basketball, Team Four won the majority of the intramural games.

Two teams were chosen by Miss Bryan—the Junior Honor Team and the Honor Team. The season began with a 34-20 victory over the women's faculty. In the first two games with Bedford Hills, the Junior Honor Team won 39-16 and the Honor Team won 21-17.

First Row—L. Morehouse, D. Davis, B. Lynn, O. Sneddon, A. Smith, M. Zottola, J. Koenig, P. Hall, S. Morgan, Miss Bryan. Second Row—U. Wilson, J. Hall, P. Grossman, A. White, P. Marshall, A. Scofield, L. Laurent, M. Hendrickson, B. Shear, L. Tocci.

Varsity Basketball

This year's basketball season was a great success. Under the able leadership of Coach Whittleton, the squad went all the way to the top, capturing the Northern Westchester Interscholastic League championship. The team had a record of seventeen wins and two losses. Fred Exley, Irl Brown, Tom Broderick, and Dick Herz were chosen for the All Star Team. The All Star Game was held at Chappaqua on March 19.

At the County Center playoffs in White Plains, we defeated Staatsburg, Irvington, Brewster, and Croton-Harmon to win the Class C championship in Section One of New York State. This was the first time in Katonah's history. Dick Herz and Irl Brown were chosen as forwards on the Class C All Star team.

Coach Favereau and his Junior Varsity squad came through the season with a record of fourteen wins and four losses. Although the J. V.'s did not win any crowns, they fought hard and played good ball throughout the entire season.

The Class of '48, in publishing this issue of the "John Jay," owes its deepest gratitude to its supporters. The wonderful response of these persons who were kind enough to help us just when we were seemingly overwhelmed with rising costs serves to remind one that, contrary to popular opinion, all is not greed in this world.

It having been impossible to contact every member of the community and outlying districts, we sincerely hope that those who didn't have a chance to show their support and interest in our school activities will not feel offended in any way. As a last thought may we express hope for a more settled state of economic and world affairs which will make possible the future publication of the "John Jay" without the necessity for requesting additional support from the good citizens of Katonah and neighboring communities.
